16 Divorces Given at Superior Court

The March term of Superior Court opened at Rumford on Tuesday of last week, Justice Edward P. Murray of Bangor presiding.

The grand jury retired in charge of County Attorney Robert Smith. The following indictments were made public:

Henry Poland, Norway, was indicted for negligently shooting a human being, Randall Curtis, Norway. Kenneth Knight, Minot, for grand larceny of a seven ton boiler. William Blagden, Boston, for dealing in securities without having a license.

Ernest Marchand of Mexico, on an appealed case of drunken driving, changed his plea to guilty. He was fined $100 and costs and execution was delayed to the June term of court.

Sureties furnished by Harry Haley of Mexico for intoxication and Carl Marston of Mexico for attempted larceny were defaulted when they failed to appear.

Suits of Robert M. Wheeler and Jessie M. Wheeler of South Paris and her parents, Dr. James L. Kay and Lillian B. Kay of Oxford, to the amount of $42,000 against Edward and Elias E. Tucker and Tobey Welland of Mechanic Falls were referred to referees, Superior Court Justices James Hudson, Albert Belliveau, and Arthur Chapman. These actions resulted from accidents near Auburn on Jan. 23, 1936, which involved eight vehicles including an oil truck, an ambulance, and a bus.

A $300 damage action brought by Edward Girard of Rumford against James H. Kerr and others as the result of an automobile collision was settled out of court.

Leon Turner of Turner sought $20,000 damages from Robert Bradford and his son, Wayne D. Bradford, of Livermore Falls. Turner, who suffered a fractured vertebra by a machine driven by Bradford April 14, 1935, when he was struck while walking home from a dance at North Turner, claimed that his injuries prevented him from working and permanently injured his health. He was awarded $2,500 by the jury. A motion for a new trial was filed.

Pumper Again Proves Efficient

Prompt and efficient action on the part of the Bethel fire department's pumper crew Wednesday afternoon prevented heavy loss at the Chadbourne portable mill on the Songo Pond road.

Fire was discovered near the stove in the garage and shop and was confined to that building. By the time the pumper arrived the building appeared doomed, but the blaze was extinguished with the contents of the booster tank. Although the loss of tools appeared to be heavy at the time, Mr. Chadbourne has estimated the damage to be in the neighborhood of $50.

A bank house nearby and possibly other property would have been destroyed if the town's new equipment had not been available.

On Wednesday evening, March 3 a very pretty and cleverly arranged shower was given by Miss Sylvia Merrill at the home of her parents for Miss Roma Warren in honor of her approaching marriage. On being invited to Miss Merrill's home she found a room full of guests awaiting her arrival. The rooms were prettily decorated in pink and white crepe paper. After regaining her speech and composure, Miss Warren was asked to follow a streamer to a decorated doll's carriage and two large containers filled with beautiful gifts of china, glassware, crockery, linen, and many other lovely and useful articles, showing the esteem and love the popular young lady is held in by her many friends and relatives.

Adjourn Corp. Meeting to May 3

With perhaps a record number of changes in its list of officers and numerous changes in appropriations the annual meeting of the Bethel Village Corporation, Monday evening was a comparatively peaceful event. Dr. Frank E. Hanscom clerk of the Corporation for 30 years, announced that he had "served his sentence" and was not a candidate for re-election, and Ernest F. Blaseo, who has served for many years as first assessor, also declined further candidacy. The only exciting contest of the evening developed in the race for membership on the Park Commission. H. C. Rowe won this honor on the fourth ballot.

The moderator was instructed to appoint a committee to revise the rules and regulations of the fire department. This committee is to report at an adjourned meeting on the evening of May 3, at which time the election of the fire engineers will also take place.

The only bid for collecting taxes was submitted by Walter B. Bartlett and his offer, .015, was fixed as the established price.

Mr. Blaseo, retiring first assessor, rendered valuable assistance in explaining the condition of various accounts and the recommendations for the coming year. He also offered the motion for the revision of the fire department's rules and regulations, explaining that the present rules had been in effect with few changes since the beginning in 1889. In those days the members, newly organized for fire protection had to haul their apparatus to the fires by hand and in many ways used methods now out of date. He felt that in the interests of efficiency the old rules should be revised.

Dr. Hanscom, feeling free of the burdens of his 30 years clerkship, added frequent humorous comment which lightened the cares of the evening. Near the close of the meeting, on the motion of Patrick O'Brien, a rising vote of thanks was given the veteran clerk.

Moderator Merrill appointed as members of the committee: E. F. Blaseo, E. A. Van, O. S. Williams, O. B. Harlow, Dr. E. L. Brown, F. A. Hunt and E. A. Davis. Mr. Van declined to serve and L. W. Ramsell was named in his place.

MAINE MEETING PLACE

Truth, they say, is stranger than fiction. Never was this truism brought more forcibly to mind than during my visit to the Sportsmen's Show in New York where Maine was represented by an elaborate exhibit.

This story, however, will not deal with the extremely favorable impression that our state's exhibit made on the hundreds of thousands of potential vacationists who milled about the huge hall where it was quartered.

On the contrary, it will center around a little incident at a hotel where I had been invited for lunch. Picking up the menu, I had selected most of my lunch with the exception of the vegetables. Being fond of Maine baked potatoes, I looked through the menu trying to find them.

Instead, this is what I found: "Idaho Baked Potatoes, 25 cents extra."

"Twenty-five cents for a potato? Let's figure it out. Let us assume that they were large, ten ounce potatoes. That would mean that there were twenty-four in a peck. The price per peck for these baked potatoes would therefore be six dollars. Carrying it a bit further, it figures out to sixty-six dollars per barrel. Not bad indeed for what is sometimes called the lowly spud.

Why do Idaho potatoes command this almost unbelievable price? Easy. They are advertised, graded and packaged attractively.

Are they superior to Maine potatoes? Not at all. On the contrary, they are not as good.

When Maine potatoes are as carefully prepared for the market as the Idaho variety and are adequately advertised, they too will command top prices.

Another instance of the potential popularity of a Maine product was brought to our attention while in New York.

Having occasion to confer with the editors of one of the world's largest newspapers, Averett Graison, executive secretary of the Maine Development Commission and I were busily talking over advertising and publicity matters when one of these editors broke in to speak about Maine apples which had been sent down to the metropolis for a Newspaperman's dinner.

This man exclaimed on the quality of these apples; said that he had never tasted an apple that had such a superior flavor.

He predicted that when Maine apples are placed on the New York market in quantities that they would prove a sensation. They would, of course, have to be as well graded and packaged as Pacific Coast apples, he added.

This enthusiasm was from a man whom the world would call a "hard boiled New Yorker;" one who is not given to pointless praise.

We in Maine have known for years that we raised the best food products grown anywhere. We are glad to know that others are beginning to realize it.

When we can let the entire country in on the secret by means of a strong, ample advertising campaign, Maine agriculturists will be hard put to it to fill their orders.

NOW ELECTRICITY DOES THE DRUDGE JOBS CHEAPLY

Housewives have never hesitated to do the hard, drudging work of the home when there was no alternative. But today electricity will take one after another of the hard labor tasks and will do them not only more quickly, but better. And best of all electricity, at low Central Maine rates, does the difficult jobs of the home so cheaply there is nothing to be saved by drudgery. Remember, too, that the more use you make of electricity, the more cheaply it works for you. Plan for better living at low cost in 1937 — electrically.

Bills in Legislature Open Lake Shore Camp Site Purchase

In an effort to make hundreds of miles of shore lots which the State of Maine, the North County fish and association and the town of Commerce, two bills at the present time in the legislature will make these camps to eager purchasers.

For the past two years the Maine Chamber of Commerce has been making a drive to the purchase of lakes. For years been controlled by owners who have sold the lots at an exorbitant price.

"The time has come when we must make available lots," Mr. Stephen making public the bills in the legislature.

"Maine has been vacationland. We would that we welcome here and on lakes and mountains allowing a few owners to hold make shores, and the power to let tourists our public spending thousands bring to Maine!"

The two bills introduced into the Representative E. John Mack Mexico, will bring the legislators at vital problem, local level.

At a recent meeting Eastern Oxford game association made to determine persons who would purchasing lots. Lakes if these lots were more than $100 would gladly buy at a reasonable price.

"Our greatest phone announced, then on the part of the large land proprietors, private publicity director would get together plan whereby the access to camp the present bills would not be near this cooperation.

ing. The wild Maine," Mr. Stop to compromise. "camp lots on our wild land owners won't listen to an for sale lots on the of the most beautiful state."

The chief argument wild land owners affirmed, is the fire menace and the can't take a stable timberland points out that showing that our caused many of fires.

"If all of our similar attitude wild land owner development would Maine today?"

phens. "What the North County fish and wants to do is to for residents of lots to purchase camp lots on our and vacation come our great Maine—far greater industry—taken to increase.

"We must not land owners block greens," said the gates of the Hum association and merce.

According to the survey, sportsmen for hunting and Maine during 1937 approximately 3,111 tory bird hunting chased in the state.

Bills in Legislature Would Open Lake Shores To Camp Site Purchase

In an effort to make available one hundred miles of beautiful lake shore lots which the public is being deprived the use of in the State of Maine, the North Eastern Oxford County fish and game protective association and the Rumford Chamber of Commerce, are sponsoring two bills at the present session of the legislature which they hope will make these camp sites available to eager purchasers.

For the past two years the Rumford fish and game association and Chamber of Commerce, through the able direction of John E. Stephens, retired local merchant, have been making a drive to make possible the purchase of camp lots on Maine lakes. For years these lots have been controlled by large woodland owners who have either refused to sell the lots or who have charged exorbitant lease charges for the use of the land for sporting camps.

"The time has come when Maine must make available its lake shore lots," Mr. Stephens announced, in making public the introduction of the bills in the legislature.

"Maine has become the nation's vacationland. We are telling the world that we want everyone to come here and enjoy our beautiful lakes and mountains. Yet we are allowing a few large wild land owners to hold many miles of our lake shores, and we are giving them the power to keep out the very tourists our publicity department is spending thousands of dollars to bring to Maine!"

The two bills which have been introduced into the legislature by Representative E. H. Dorr and Senator John MacKinnon, both of Mexico, will bring the attention of the legislators and voters to this vital problem, local proponents believe.

At a recent meeting of the North Eastern Oxford County fish and game association, a survey was made to determine the number of persons who would be interested in purchasing lots on the Rangeley Lakes if these lots were made available. More than fifty men said they would gladly buy if the prices were set at a reasonable figure.

"Our greatest need," Mr. Stephens announced, "is more cooperation on the part of all concerned. If the large land owners, camp proprietors, private individuals, and publicity directors of our state could get together and work out a plan whereby the public would have access to camp lots on our lakes, the present bills in the legislature would not be necessary. But thus far this cooperation has been lacking. The wild land owners of Maine," Mr. Stephens says, "refuse to compromise. No one shall buy camp lots on our land," the large wild land owners exclaim, and they won't listen to any plan of offering for sale lots on the shores of some of the most beautiful lakes in the state."

The chief argument which the wild land owners have, Mr. Stephens affirmed, is that campers are a fire menace and that woodland owners can't take a chance with valuable timberlands. Mr. Stephens points out that he has information showing that our lumbermen have caused many of our Maine forest fires.

"If all of our forefathers had had a similar attitude to the present wild land owners, just how much development would we have in Maine today?" questions Mr. Stephens.

"What the North Eastern Oxford County fish and game association wants to do is to make it possible for residents of the state and tourists to purchase at reasonable rates camp lots on our lakes. The tourist and vacation business has become our greatest enterprise in Maine—far greater than the lumbering industry—and steps must be taken to increase this business.

"We must not let a few large wild land owners block the path of progress," said the hard working delegate of the Rumford fish and game association and Chamber of Commerce.

According to the U. S. Biological Survey, sportsmen paid $108,712.55 for hunting and fishing licenses in Maine during 1935. In addition, approximately 3,100 federal migratory bird hunting stamps were purchased in the state.

Enforced Traffic Rules

The committee appointed to revise the regulations of the local fire department have been assigned an important and perhaps unpleasant task. The recent step toward modernizing the apparatus has brought to the surface certain human foibles which the Citizen did not foresee when it urged the purchase of a fire pumper. It almost seems as if the only purpose of a fire department is likely to be over-looked in the scramble for the honor of operating the new machine. The new committee has in its hands the opportunity of a lifetime to make worthwhile advances. Let us hope that it does not forget its only object.

Gasoline Tax Receipts Rising Making Rate Increase Unnecessary

No increase in the state gasoline tax is needed at this time. In fact, the levy should be reduced, Joseph D. Campbell, secretary of the Maine Petroleum Industries Committee said today in commenting on the efforts of a few members of the legislature to push through a bill increasing the state gasoline tax.

"Gasoline tax collections in 1937 will be from 15 to 20% greater in 1938," he explained. "Increased registrations of motor vehicles will also bring a substantial increase in motor vehicle revenue. The gasoline tax could be reduced and the total automotive tax revenue would still be at the 1936 level."

"On its very face the suggestion that the gasoline tax should be increased is preposterous. Gasoline taxes have been increased repeatedly and the motorist is now paying more than his just share of the cost of highway upkeep. Gasoline taxes are the only source of revenue that were higher during the depression and higher today than in 1929."

"It is contrary to all the principles of just and equitable legislation to increase the tax rate when the tax receipts are constantly expanding. When the federal income tax receipts rose in the 1920's, the rates were revised downward. If returns from real estate taxes increase, the tax rate is lowered."

"What would the real estate owners in this state say if, despite a 15 or 20% expansion in realty tax receipts, the property tax rate was jumped up a hundred or more points? The public indignation that would result would know no bounds."

"Motorists of the state, unfortunately for their own good, pay their taxes with little or no protest.
That is why they have been made tax goats and are forced to pay more than their just share of the expense of maintaining the highways. But the piling on of taxes cannot go on indefinitely. There must come a time to call a halt.
That time is now."

Part of Liverpool
One of the chief reasons for Liverpool becoming a great port is that it is situated directly deep-water haven on the west coast of England.
There are 60 miles of tidal water and a safe anchorage for 1000 ships on the Liverpool side.

BACK FROM THE GRAVE

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Happenings That Affect the Financ-cial, Business and Tax Hills of Every Individual, National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare

Current business, on the average, is maintaining the relatively high levels reached at the end of 1936 and the beginning of 1937. The short-term outlook, so far as production, sales and profits are concerned, is good. The long-term outlook is questionable.

In those three moments is found the theme song of most of the business writers at present. They have at hand the cold statistics which, with a very few exceptions, are encouraging. But they are puzzled by various conflicting tendencies and opposed trends.

There are three principal elements that make it extremely har-dous to attempt to forecast the course of industry and business beyond the next few months.

One of these elements is politics.
No one knows what the President may have up his sleeve to present to a Congress that, for good or evil, is in most matters completely subservient to his wish. At this time the Supreme Court issue naturally overhangs everything else. It is certain that it will be a long time before the proposal is brought to a vote. But there is at least an even chance, once the show-down comes and the "heat" is turned on, that it will pass. As a result, many business leaders fear that Mr. Roosevelt may have in mind legislation of the type of the late NIRA, and wants a more friendly High Court in order to assure its legality—they anticipate that the Administration has a definite, even though devious program in mind that will regiment industry.

Second element is labor. John L.
Lewis and his CIO didn't get anywhere near all they demanded in the General Motors strike. They did get some concessions and, more important, got official recognition as a bargaining agency in employer-employee difficulties. Mr. Lewis is now known to be looking at the coal and steel industries, and considering plans for conquering them.
Other strikes are in the offing, notably in textiles. The "sit down" strike has apparently become an established phase of strike strategy, and laborites believe that both employers and government officials will hesitate to evict sit-downers even though they have court injunctions behind them, because of the possibility of violence and bloodshed. With great labor-capital wars impending, the investor and the industrialist are naturally cautious.

A big strike not only imperils property. It also reduces purchasing power, perhaps to the tune of billions, and it shrinks the consuming market for goods and services of all kinds.

The third element is what Roger Babson, who won fame when he forecast the 1929 collapse, terms
"The Canine American Boom." Mr.

Babson is not alone in this—practically every commentator of experience feels that credit inflation is getting out of hand, that there is a grave danger that security values will be forced up beyond reasonable levels, and that a real speculative boom will result—to be followed by a crash of almost unimaginable severity. It is not believed that current stock, bond and real estate values—taking them by and large—are excessively high, but the danger exists. It is a noteworthy fact that officials of the New York Stock Exchange are worried about this, and are issuing warnings to the public, and are cooperating with SEC experts in efforts to prevent ballooning of prices. But past experience demonstrates that it is a very difficult job to restrain a gambling mad public. Worst phase of this, say the authorities, is the extraordinary amount of activity in "nickel stocks"—people are buying low-priced issues simply because they are cheap, not knowing whether there is real worth back of them or not, and this heavily stimulated demand, of course, boosts quotations.

Summing up, it can be anticipated with reasonable certainty that, barring a major epidemic of strikes, the business situation will be relatively unchanged until after the middle of the year, may even improve somewhat. But there are too many jokers in the deck to look ahead to the end of the year and into 1938 without resorting to plain guessing. It is significant that only the amateur, inexperienced propagandists are confident of what will happen then—the experienced authorities just shake their heads.

Some time soon Congress will be called upon to consider what Business Week terms "the broadest farm program ever advocated in this country."

The program, product of Secretary Wallace and his associates, will include many factors. Soil conservation—whereby crop control can be indirectly attained—will be part of it. A potential cure for the grave farm tenancy problem—thought by some men, Republicans and Democrats alike, to be one of the really burning issues of the time—will be offered. And provisions will be made for crop insurance, advocated by both the President and Governor Landon in the last campaign.

One idea of Mr. Wallace's in the "ever normal granary." Under this plan surplus crops would be stored in big production years to be used in abnormal years; thus, in theory, stabilizing prices and adjusting supply with demand.

Washington Snapshots by JAMES PRESTON

Whatever else folks around Washington think about the proposal to pack the Supreme Court, most of them agree that the debate about it is turning into one of the best myth-debunkers in years.

At the very start, of course, support was sought for the plan on the basis that it was designed to help the farmers and the workers. The plain implication, and in fact the argument, was that the interests of the two groups were exactly the same.

No sooner had the debate really begun, however, than that myth was exploded into bits, to the horror of the "Court bill's" backers.
First, labor unions announced their intention to apply all the pressure they could to win Congressional votes; second, the National Grange, leading farm organization, openly announced opposition to the bill, and other similar farm groups remained silent.

But to cap the climax, and to strengthen the farm organization's position, the American Federation of Labor announced its intention to unite farm hands. That was a shock, and tactical mistake, for it showed that labor organizations consider farmers outside the pale.

The result, Washington prognosticators say, will be not only stronger farm opposition to the plan but the final obliteration of arguments that farmers and unionists ought to join in a farm-labor political party.

The debate, too, is rapidly debunking the myth that because Congress had passed scores of laws without even knowing what was in them it would continue to do so brainlessly. Even Charles West, brain-truster who draws $15,000 a year as Undersecretary of Interior but who is the White House "contact" man on Capitol Hill, is having to argue these days, it used to be that just a visit from West would "line up" a vote.

Some observers say the debate also will debunk the idea that all legislation is the work of a few men in any one group. An objective of the Court plan, of course, is to establish federal control over wages, hours and production.

In preparation for the fight over wages and hour laws, some Congressmen are gathering figures to show that the United States already has the highest living standard in the world, and that it achieved that standard not because of federal legislation but because industry itself voluntarily improved processes of production.

Thus, a man making shoes with a machine can produce 10 times as many now as he could have produced 75 years ago. But he works only half as long as he did. That still leaves him able to make more shoes, and that in turn decreases the cost per pair so that more people may buy them.

And all that, of course, was achieved without any federal hour-wage regulation.

As things now shape up, forecasters agree that if the Court bill does pass, it will do so only because its backers have better machinery to put pressure on voting Congressmen, and only because those who oppose the bill stop letting their Congressmen know about it.

Speaking of mail, the Congressmen may be getting a lot, but they send out a lot, too. Last year, 700, 000,000 pieces of mail containing "free" bulletins, speeches of Senators and Representatives, and correspondence, were sent through the mails by the federal government.
And it wasn't necessary to pay postage on any of that.

Hand-Painted Playing Cards
The early packs of cards were painted by hand and very expensive.
The accounts of the French king Charles VI, for the year 1332 show the payment to a painter of a sum equivalent to $70 for three packs of cards in gold and various colors embellished with various designs.
Between 1400 and 1413 engraving was applied to the manufacture of cards.

OXFORD COUNTY UNITED PARISH

Another of our old friends has left us. Mrs. Sarah Green Hamlin passed away last Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Annie Bradbury where she has been boarding.
She leaves us with the memory of a brave life that did not lose its cheerful smile even in the face of many hardships.

Last week Thursday we met at East Stoneham for our Fellowship Supper. On Friday evening at Center Lovell, Rev. Rensel Colby gave us a very interesting and helpful talk following the Fellowship Supper. The Fellowship Supper at No.
Waterford called out a large number. The newly organized Farm Berean served a very delicious supper.
One of their Square Meals for Health!

On Wednesday of this week, Mr.
Warren Palmer will conduct the special Lenten Service at Waterford; and on Thursday evening Mr.
Colby will speak at East Stoneham, following the Circle Supper. Following the Circle Supper at Center Lovell, on Friday evening, Mr.
Swank speaks and a stereopticon lecture will be given: "Open Doors to World Culture."

We are approaching the Fifth Sunday in Lent. Everyone will be glad to see you at Church Sunday morning. Services at Waterford and North Waterford will be at 10 a. m., and at Center Lovell and East Stoneham at 11.15. Services will be held in Albany at the Little's and at the Town House School at 2.30 p. m. At 4.30 at the Grange Hall at South Waterford we will have another stereopticon lecture. The Young People will continue their discussions of Christian Living at North Waterford.

Next week looks like a full and profitable week for the Parish. It starts well with a meeting of the Men's Club at Center Lovell. The speaker for the evening will be Mr.
Wood, principal of the South Para-ish High School. Following the Circle Supper at North Waterford, Mr.
Swank will speak at the special Lenten Service. On Wednesday evening at Waterford, Mr. Colby will speak, and Mr. Gledhill will speak at the special Lenten Service at Center Lovell. The closing session of the Lenten Bible Class will be conducted by Mr. Swank at the North Waterford Grammar School.
Then on Friday evening at the Wilkins House at Waterford we will gather for the last of the series of the Fellowship Suppers for the season.

We hope the regular and special Lenten Services will increasingly receive your hearty support, and that this season may truly be a season of growth in grace and in the knowledge of the Lord.

Lundy Island Given Its

Name by Cruel Vikings

Lundy Island, a tiny speck, three and one-half miles long by one-half mile wide, in the Bristol channel, 12 miles off the coast of Devon, has no traditions handed by word of mouth as might be expected of a place inhabited from prehistoric times, since no population until recently had been able to maintain itself more than a few generations before being violently superceded by another. The remains of houses of round towers similar to those archaeological culmians in Ireland are reminders of an early Celtic habitation. The name Lundy, meaning Puffin Island in the Norse language, was given it by the Vikings who used it as a base for their sea raids.

After the Norman Conquest it fell to the Marisco family, a younger branch of the Plantagenets, who maintained themselves there for some two centuries in a huge stone castle with walls nine feet thick, a considerable part of which is standing, and which on its high headland location is visible for miles around. The Mariscos were a troublesome lot and twice were ordered off and the island given to the Knights Templar, but neither time did the Knights actually obtain possession. Several members of the family were plain pirates. One was hanged for participation in a plot to assassinate Henry III, and the last of the line was beheaded for being on the wrong side in the Barons' war which resulted in the deposing of Edward II.

TYPICAL EFFECTS OF A STRIKE IN ANY MAJOR INDUSTRY

The chart above shows how the chief effects of a strike begin immediately to spread in all directions. Back at the supply sources, cancelled orders for raw and semi-finished materials and equipment tend to create additional unemployment and lost business in over-wideening circles. In distribution channels, sales, employment, and income fall off more or less sharply. Transportation revenues shrink. Curtailled business and thin pocketbooks at the strike center, in the supply sources, and distribution and transportation channels result in generally reduced retail trade, smaller tax collections, increased relief burdens. This picture of the long trail of losses, even much simplified as it is, indicates why economists cannot estimate in advance the total cost of a strike. Studies of the losses from previous strikes show that their total cost amounts to anywhere from 6 to 700 times the value of wages lost by men thrown out of work at the strike center itself.

4-H CLUB NEWS

Five Club Girls Enter State Dress Parade

Five girls have entered the 4-H Club State Dress Parade to compete for a trip to State Camp at Orono next summer. The entrants are: Edy McKee, South Paris; Ida Oakes, Bryant Pond; Helen Oakes, South Paris; Frieda Thurston, Bethel; and Carolyn Dunham of Bryant Pond. Each contestant will make a cotton wash school dress which she has made. The county winner will attend State Camp at Orono. Here she will compete in the State Style Dress Parade.

Two Girls Enter Baking Contest

Flora Grever of West Bethel and Margaret Long of Locke Mills are the first two girls to enter the Baking Contest. Each contestant will demonstrate the mixing, kneading, testing and moulding of yeast bread and exhibit a loaf of bread. Each contestant will provide all her own equipment for the contest.

Three judges will score each contestant on arrangement of equipment, method of preparation, time, manipulation, and personal appearance of the demonstrator as well as her exhibit.

The county winner will be eligible to attend State Camp at Orono in August. She will compete in the state-wide contest at Orono.

Poultry Contest

Senior and Young Farmer boys, who are enrolled in the Chick Raising or Poultry Management project for 1937, are eligible to enroll in the Poultry contest. None of the boys who have previously attended State Camp are eligible. West Bethel 4-H Elects Officers

On Saturday, March 5, the Twenty-Ninth 4-H Club met at the home of the leader, Mrs. Gladys Tyler, for its first meeting. Officers were elected as follows: president, Bernard Bartlett, vice-president, Charles Knight, secretary, Robert Billings, treasurer, Lawrence Tyler, editor, Charles Knight, club reporter, Raymond Holt.

The Club Voted to Raise a Club Potato Seed Plot

The club voted to raise a club potato seed plot as they have the past two years. This club is the only one in the county that has a club project in addition to their individual projects. They purchased three bushels of certified seed. The boys work together in preparing the ground, planting and caring for their seed plot. The greater part of the seed has been planted by the club members for their projects. This has given them the opportunity to compare results between this seed and seed previously used.

Bernard Bartlett, Lawrence Tyler and Robert Billings were appointed to make arrangements for a wheat party to raise funds for the club. Lawrence Tyler and Robert Billings were appointed to work with Mrs. Tyler on the program of work for the year.

Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served after the business meeting.

Merry Toppers Meet

The Merry Toppers 4-H Club met at the home of Mrs. Forbes on March 6, 1937. We opened with the song America, sang salutes and Club pledge. Janice and Eleanor Young are on the recreation committee for next time. Each one bring their holders. Club Reporter, Beatrice Forbes.

"Old Hickory" Jackson Andrew Jackson had more striking characteristics than any man who preceded him as President of the United States. He often appeared in public wearing a military cloak and carrying a stout hickory cane by which he earned the sobriquet of "Old Hickory." Dressed in plain clothes, he rode to the capital for his inauguration without an overcoat.

GOULD ACADEMY NOTES

On Friday afternoon, March 5, the Y. M. C. A. held their meeting at the Principal's home and at that time O'Neil Robertson, President of the "Y," presented Huston Dodge with a steel vice as a token of the appreciation of the "Y" for his assistance in decorating for the Carnival Hall and other functions at which he has assisted. A financial report showed a bank balance adequate for activities for the remainder of this year and the first part of next year. After the meeting a light luncheon was served to the group of approximately 50.

The Gould Academy Debating Club on Friday, March 5, held its debate on the following question: Resolved, That the United States Government should appropriate one billion dollars for an immediate low-cost housing program. The affirmative team was represented by O'Neil Robertson and Erland Wentzel of Bethel and Bryant Bean of Bryant Pond; the negative was represented by Margaret Tibbetta of Bethel, Nancy Philbrook of Shelburne, N. H., and Robert Keniston of West Paris. Henry Hastings of Bethel acted as chairman and the judges were members of the Debating Club. The affirmative team won the debate.

The Seniors of Gould Academy have chosen as their class play the popular 3-act comedy by Barry Conners, "The Patsy." Miss Constance F. Philbrook, Shelburne, N. H., has the leading role and will be ably supported by the following cast: Rita Hutchins, Erland Wentzel, Robert Whitman, O'Neil Robertson and Lawrence Perry of Bethel, Rosamond Foss of Westbrook, Maine, Ann Lyndon of Boston, Mass., and Dwight Stiles of Milan, N. H. Rehearsals are now being held and production will be shortly after April 1. The play is under the direction of Miss Ruth Leavengood, public speaking teacher of the Academy.

Much enthusiasm is being shown toward girls' volleyball at present. After a few weeks of practice there will be a class tournament. Five seniors, 11 juniors, 17 sophomores, and 16 freshmen have signed up for the class teams.

The Gould girls completed their intermural basketball season last week with the Seniors barely notching out the Juniors to win the championship for their class. Each class played each other twice. The Seniors and the Juniors were closely matched, each losing one game to the other; but due to the fact that the Juniors were defeated in one game by the Sophomores the Seniors came out on top for the season.

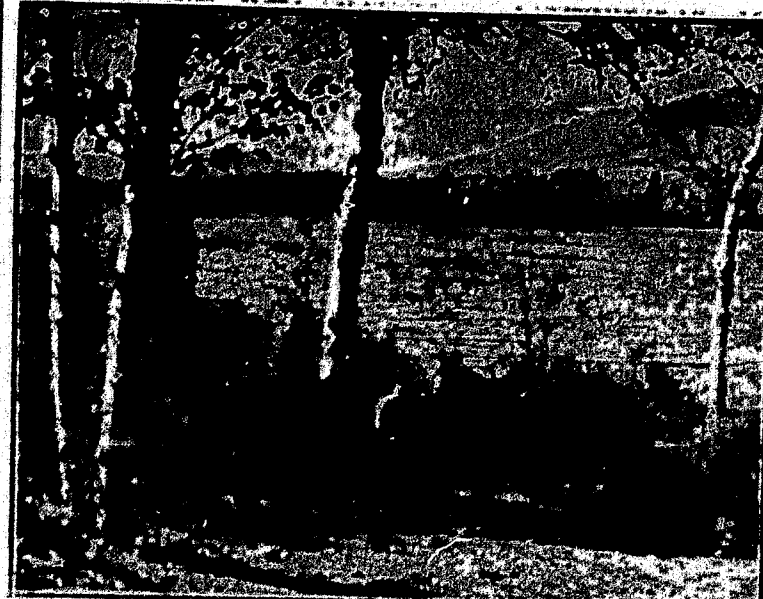

Barbara Moore was manager of girls' basketball, while the captains of the four classes were: Margaret Tibbetta for the Seniors, Patricia Goodwin for the Juniors, Margaret Bennett for the Sophomores and Madelyn Bird for the Freshmen.

Constance Philbrook was the Senior high-point scorer, while Nancy Philbrook scored the most points for the Juniors. Virginia Chapman for the Sophomores, and Virginia Davis and Edna Young tied for that honor in the Freshman class.

The following students gave declamations in the assembly hall on Friday, March 5: Margaret Tibbetta, Irene Foster, Edward Holt, Frank Littlehale, Maynard Austin, Theodore Cummings, Maynard Malloy, Clinton Bennett, Donald Bennett, Charles Adams, George Waterman, Donald Brown, Mary Clough and John King.

The annual Mother-Daughter get-together will be held in the William Bingham Gymnasium on Thursday evening, March 18. All mothers of the Girl Reserve members are urged to be present. A program is scheduled as follows: Declamations will be given by Arlene Greenleaf, June Little, Rosamond Foss, Barbara Lyon and Claire Tebbeta; a solo dance by Virginia Smith; accordion solo by Ellen Spear; ensemble music—piano, two violins and cello—piano by Miss Maude Ellen Pike of Norway, violins played by Miss Clara Shepherd of Norway and Miss Lorene Roop and the cello by Mrs. Robert Waugh of Hebron; selections by ensemble, Spanish Dances, No. 1, 2, 4 by Moszkowski; "Au Soir" and "La Vieille" by Chanson and No. 1, Violin Duet, "Sweetest Story Ever Told" by Miss Roop; Trio, "Serenade" by Wilder, Miss Roop, Mrs. Waugh and Miss Pike; Cello solo, "Serenade" by Badine, Mrs. Waugh; Trio, "Serenade" by Moszkowski, Miss Shepherd, Mrs. Waugh and Miss Pike.

The losers played poorly, their previous team work seemingly all gone to pieces. They found difficulty in stopping Littlehale who scored 14 points for the Juniors. The game was a nip and tuck affair for three periods as the following score by periods shows, but in the last period the Juniors put over a real rally:
